

Adventure Ahead synopsis

Adventure Ahead! was a short-lived 30-minute adventure series for juveniles broadcast from August 5 to November 18, 1944 (Source: OTRR pedia). The stories, billed as 'famous stories for young people', included adaptations of literary classics like Robinson Crusoe, The Three Musketeers, Two Years Before the Mast; current literature like the young adult novels Toby Tyler, and Biscuit Eater; historical stories like "A Tooth for Paul Revere" by Steven Vincent Benét and "One of the 28th: A Tale of Waterloo" by George A. Henty; as well as action-oriented "true life" stories such as "Inside the FBI." The series ran on Saturdays.

(Sources: Digital Deli, Times Past OTR Archive)