

TIP O' THE MORNING: Anybody want a 750-pound rag doll? The 15-foot doll used by Ralph Edwards in connection with the March of Dimes was supposed to go on tour, but proved too unwieldy. If you have an idea for doing something useful with it, let us know and we'll tell Edwards.

Some of the legendary figures of modern music—Duke Ellington, Johnny Hodges, Sonny Greer—played for two small Parkway audiences Thursday night, and convinced most of their listeners that the legend is solidly based and will live.

With these men were some musicians of high calibre who, if the Madison audience is right, will be long remembered, too.

Among them were Lawrence Brown, trombonist; Nelson Williams, trumpet; Albert Hibbler, vocalist, and a couple of Hodges' co-workers in the reed section of whose names I am not sure.

Ellington's piano work, particularly when his quiet efficiency contrasted with the high-powered brass, was a delight, and his friendly manner of presentation was a factor in the variety concert's success.

It helped to offset the somewhat erratic progress and lighting of the first half, which needed the polish and showmanship of the second portion.

Ellington's piano was a constant factor in the success of the band's numbers, which were highlighted at intervals with the solo work of Hodges, Al Killian, Brown, Wendell Marshall, and others.

Vocalists with the 16-piece (including Ellington) orchestra were Al Hibbler, who stopped the show cold; Lu Elliot, formerly with Benny Carter, and Kay Davis.

whose clear soprano shone in "Creole Love Song."

Ray Nance was a show-stopper, too, with the evening's only dancing and broad comedy, a brash "St. Louis Blues."

Ellington's satire on old and new jazz styles also touched the funnybone.

His "Liberian Suite" was, on the whole, high grade music, with touches of pathos.

And ghostly off-stage taps added reality to the musical portrait of the late "Bojangles" Bill Robinson.

Streetcar Crushes Man in Downtown Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—One man was killed and another injured in a freak accident at a downtown Milwaukee intersection Thursday.

The men Jerome C. Meyers, 50, and Steve Holantunder, 55, were standing on a safety island between a streetcar and a truck, waiting for a bus.

The streetcar made a left turn. As it did, it's back end swung across the island, pinning the men against the truck. Meyers was killed and Holantunder was hospitalized in a semi-conscious condition.
