TIP O' THE MORNING: Latest information on Wisconsin basketball broadcasting is that the games will be on WIBA-FM, WFOV, WISC, and WISC-FM.

When the Madison Civic chorus presented "The Bartered Bride" at the Parkway theater back in 1938, Dr. Sigfrid Prager enlisted Wrestler Jimmy Demetral as a member of the cast. Demetral was here to add realism to a circus scene in the second act of Smetana's opera.

So far, Directors Fredrick Burki and Richard C. Church of Wisconsin Players' presentation of the same opera haven't announced any such spectacular additions, but one never knows for when these two men get their heads together something spectacular usually results.

Anyway, Players and the University of Wisconsin school of music will give "The Bartered Bride" in the Wisconsin Union theater Dec. 4 through Dec. 9, with Burki as general director and Church in charge of music.

Boxoffice sale of tickets will begin today as will exchange of season coupons for seat tickets. Prof. John Dietrich, business manager of the theater, has asked us to urge season-ticket holders to make their exchanges early.

Note that this production will have six performances instead of the usual five.

"FINEST FAMILY": A search for "the finest family in the country" has been inaugurated by Tommy Bartlett, emcee of NBC's radio program, "Welcome Travelers" (Mondays through Fridays, 9 a.m.). The winning family, nominated by letter to the program, will be given "the finest Christmas this family will ever have known."

According to Bartlett, who interviews travelers in Chicago on his program, the search is not necessarily for a needy family but for a family which most nearly represents, the year round, the spirit of Christmas. The program per-

MARY ELIZABETH COLLINS

Harpist Mary Elizabeth Collins will be one of the artists appearing in a "Twilight Musicale" at 4:30 p. m. Sunday in Bethel Lutheran church. The program will be given by alumnae, active members, pledges, and patroness members of Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music fraternity.

NEW SPADE: The new Sam Spade, one of radio's most-rewarding acting plums, is Steve Dunne. Dunne, playing with Lurene Tuttle as Effie, Sam's adoring secretary, carries on his San Francisco capers on NBC's "New Adventures of Sam Spade" Fridays at 7:30 p. m. He was selected for the part in Hollywood by director-producer William Spier after a score of radio actors were auditioned.

Dunne comes to the role of Dashiell Hammett's brash private detective after 30 film credits and hundreds of West Coast radio and television performances. He was called up for the Spade audition as a result of a five-year old note scribbled and filed by Spier. In 1945, the producer saw a movie called "Shock." Dunne played a small part in the film. Spier never met or interviewed the actor until 1950, when he sought the new Sam Spade after checking his file.

SILVER: An exhibition of handwrought silver designed and executed by art teachers at the Silversmithing Workshop conference last summer will open Dec. 4 at the University of Wisconsin, F. Carlton Ball, of the faculty, arranged for the four-day show. He was one of 12 teachers chosen to attend the conference in 1948. Evelyn Bauman, West high school teacher, was selected in 1949.
