YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

* * *

The story, the meaning, and the hopes of Christmas were told in song, reading, and drama at the Wisconsin Union theater Tuesday night when the YMCA, YWCA, and Student board of the University of Wisconsin presented their 25th annual Christmas festival.

Despite a request that there be no applause, the audience of about 600 persons found such satisfaction that it could not desist.

An air of reverence was established in Donald Robinson's reading of "The Story of the Fourth Wise Man" and continued in a performance of "A Child Is Born," poetic drama by Stephen Vincent Benet.

Leah Mandelker, in her direction of the play, had succeeded in transferring to the stage a piece written for radio and, in so doing, had added to its effectiveness. This she accomplished largely by enhancing with motion the inborn sense of movement of Benet's script, and partly by the collaboration of Terry Wells in lighting.

Bruce Kanitz and Colette Slightam, as an innkeeper and his wife, gave moving performances in this tale of Christmas eve in Bethlehem, and Warren Enters added a lively bit as a thief, with the meaning of the role made more apparent by judicious gestures.

The first half of the program was devoted to Christmas music, formal and folk, new and old. The University's Men's chorus, directed by Paul G. Jones, gave a lightness, surprising in men's voices, to "Carol of the Bells." The University Women's chorus, under Helene Blotz, was particularly good in two Benjamin Britten works.

The men and women united for a third group, with Mrs. Blotz, Jones, and Donn Weiss sharing the direction of songs as divergent as the dramatic "Two Kings" and the rhythmic Don Large arrangement of "Jingle Bells."

+ + +

AT WAYLAND: Lowell Froker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Froker, 3322 Blackhawk dr., was one of the soloists in "The Nativity," a pageant presented Sunday at Wayland academy, Beaver Dam. The program was given by the school choir and Wayland YWCA.

+ + +

THEATER GUILD: Director Robert Merriman will conduct tryouts at 7:45 tonight and at 7:45 p. m. Thursday for roles in "The Corn Is Green," to be presented Feb. 1, 2, and 3 by the Madison Theater Guild. Tryouts will be held in the Guild studio, 702 E. Main st.

Anyone in the Madison area past high school age is eligible to audition for one of the many parts.

Merriman expects to cast the play promptly so the players may work on their lines during the holidays. Rehearsals will begin shortly after Jan. 1.

Joseph Szigeti, violinist, is observing his 25th anniversary season in the United States. His first appearance was made in December of 1925 with the Philadelphia orchestra under Leopold Stokowski. Since then he has made annual tours.

To start his anniversary season, Szigeti will appear on a special concert at New York's Carnegie hall on Dec. 19, with Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting members of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony.
