TIP O' THE MORNING: Don't be surprised if Jascha Heifetz headlines next season's Wisconsin Union concerts.

A poetic drama which delighted the eye and ear as it challenged the mind was presented Tuesday night in the Wisconsin Union theater.

It was T. S. Eliot's unique "Murder in the Cathedral," a compound of poetry, personal analysis, religious doctrine, and satire on sophistry which tells the story of Thomas Becket, archbishop of Canterbury.

This drama of 12th-century England was staged with pomp and artistry by Wisconsin Players under the direction of Prof. Ronald Mitchell, before a setting that was powerful in itself and with lighting and costumes that added luster and aided understanding.

Charles Mark played Thomas with a sure knowledge of Eliot's vibrant, if sometimes self-conscious poetry and a lucid way of speaking it.

He drew the character as Eliot undoubtedly conceived it—a humble man, convinced of his approaching martyrdom and sure of his reason; a man ready to face his God.

In the first scene, four tempters approach the archbishop upon his return from exile, and point up his past to justify what they see in his possible future. All offer worldliness, even the worldliness of a self-seeking martyrdom, and all are rejected.

Thomas goes before his people on Christmas day with a beautiful and penetrating sermon on the church's martyrs, then dies at the hands of four nobles who, with naive sophistry, try to explain and justify the murder.

Through it all, the women of Canterbury cry out their woes, their tribulations, and their fears.

S. Owen Dr. Sidewalk Sought for Pupils

Light residents petitioned the city council Tuesday for a cement sidewalk on the west side of S. Owen dr., between Hillcrest dr. and Upland dr.

With the new Midvale school opening next September, the improvement was cited as an urgent need.

"It is unthinkable," the petition said, "that the large child population of this section should have to hazard life and limb four times daily on an unprotected street."

The walk should be planned to preserve, "as far as possible," the trees which "give the community its charm and character," the petition said.

It was signed by Mildred A. and Charles N. Lloyd, 208 S. Owen dr.; Frances and Robert W. Ozanne, 210 S. Owen dr.; Mabel N. Koehler, 214 S. Owen dr.; Eleanor Dahle, 218 S. Owen dr.; J. D. Evans and Myrtle D. Evans, 4301 Hillcrest dr.

ly through Saturday at 8. Next Wisconsin Players' bill will be a group of three one-act plays Mar. 13 and 14 in the Play Circle—"Where the Cross Is Made," "No 'Count Boy,'" and "The Purification."

Next full-length play will be "Ethan Frome," Mar. 27-31.

CHRISTENING: Station WFOV will carry a direct broadcast at 1:30 p.m. Thursday of the christening of Wisconsin Central Airlines' DC-3s. Taking part in the program will be Gov. and Mrs. Kohler, Tommy "Welcome Travelers" Bartlett, and residents of Madison service and business clubs.

TOP TUNES: Most-requested tunes on Madison's talk-box jukeboxes last week, as reported by Bob Clup of WFOV, were these: ONE, "Would I Love You?" TWO, "Be My Love." THREE, "My Heart Cries for You." FOUR, "If." FIVE, "Tennessee Waltz." SIX, "Aba Daba Honeymoon." SEVEN, "Mocking Bird Hill." EIGHT, "The Roving Kind." NINE, "So Long." TEN, "A Penny a Kiss."
