MAIL BAG: From Mrs. A. J. Barrett, corresponding secretary, Wisconsin Assn. for Better Radio and Television . . .

"I am writing especially to thank you for taking part in the panel last Friday evening, but I cannot write you without telling you how much we appreciate your various articles during the year.

"We are only amateur (constructive, we hope) critics, but I do think that helps us to value all the more your well thought out and well put ideas."

DISCS OF THE DAY: Recommended popular records . . .

Trudy Richards and Ray Charles: "I'll Be All Smiles Tonight" and "That's How Our Love Will Grow" . . . A couple of rather unusual songs, with Joe Lipman's orchestra helping things along. (MGM).

Jo Stafford: "Lovely Is the Evening" and "San Antonio Rose" . . .

A new one and an old one, with typical Stafford class. Paul Westons' orchestra and the Norman Luboff chorus add to the strength. (Columbia).

Doris Day: "I'll Be Around", with Axel Stordahl orchestra and chorus, and "I Love the Way You Say Goodnight," with Buddy Cole's orchestra . . . Another three-star waxing. (Columbia).

Mariners: "Light in the Window," sentimental song in barbershop style, and "Loving Is Believing." (Columbia).

Art Mooney orchestra: "Beautiful Brown Eyes" and "Sparrow in the Treetop" . . . You know 'em both, and you know Mooney. Alan Foster, Rosette Shaw, and the Mooney choir sing (MGM).

Paul Weston orchestra: "Let Me In," with Champ Butler's up-and-coming voice, and "How Thoughtful of You," with Norman Luboff choir. (Columbia).

Herb Lance: "Jet," taken at a slower pace than usual, and "With Love in My Heart," romantic ballad . . . Sounds something like Eckstine. (Columbia).

Writer Describes 1951 Model A-Bomb

NEW YORK—(UP)—The 1951 model atom bomb is an "ugly thing," weighing 10,000 pounds and looking like a big hot water tank with a rounded nose, Look magazine said Monday in a copyrighted article.

The article, illustrated by a drawing of the bomb's exterior, said the completely assembled bomb is "like nothing else on earth" and can be dropped with "astonishing accuracy."

It reported that the current bomb is about 20 feet long, 9 or 10 feet in diameter and can be set to explode 40 seconds after it is dropped from a bomber.

(In Washington, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said in a statement: "The writer of the article in the current issue of Look magazine did not see an actual atomic weapon and the air force has assured the AEC that the writer did not see a representation of an atomic weapon.)
