TIP O' THE MORNING: "Quiz Kids" will be back on NBC-WIBA at 6 p. m. Sunday.

Fresh, sparkling comedy, played knowingly and with zest, opened the last week of Wisconsin Players' current season Tuesday night in the Wisconsin Union theater.

"Like 'The Male Animal,' which opened the season, this play—'Goodbye, My Fancy'—was laid on a college campus and included rather forceful arguments for faculty freedom from the dictates of business-minded trustees.

Frederick Buerki, who directed the comedy, had chosen his cast wisely. Constance Crosby, Virginia Wright, and Donald Soule were outstanding among the leading players, and Gloria Levy, Frances Nethercut, and Miss Kosbab, and Susan Weir etched good pictures of other characters.

"Goodbye, My Fancy" tells of a congressman who returns to her alma mater (from which she had been expelled for being caught sneaking into her room at 6 a. m.) to receive an honorary degree.

She falls in love all over again with a professor, now the college president, and succeeds in turning him from an academic coward into the sort of man she wants him to be, much to the surprise and consternation of first, the trustees, and second, a Life photographer who is in love with her, too.

Miss Crosby just about stole the show with her picture of the congressman's sophisticated, mildly hard-boiled, and secretly sentimental secretary. Given many of the best laughs of the show by author Fay Kanin, she sold all of them with the wisdom and timing of a veteran comedienne.

Miss Wright played the sportswoman-politician with polish and with an interesting build-up of character. At first, her Agatha Reed appeared reserved, uncertain of the reception she would receive, and a little cool to the whole affair. But with the rebirth of her love for the president and her use of trickery to gain her ends, she became a human and fiery woman.

Soule was the photographer, a sharp operator in love and business. Like Miss Crosby, he had a
