

TIP O' THE MORNING: Red Skelton will star in a film version of "Capt. Applejack," Broadway hit which became a favorite of amateur acting companies.

Because of the illness of Beatrice Bentz Hagen, violinist, the Pro Arte quartet has changed its program for the first of a series of six concerts planned for the 1951-52 season.

In the concert at 8 p. m. Sunday in Music hall, Verne Reynolds will join the quartet in Mozart's "Horn Quintet in E-Flat Major, K. 407," which will replace the string quintet originally scheduled.

Reynolds, an instructor in the University of Wisconsin school of music, is a former member of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra.

Five of the six programs will be repeated in Milwaukee. Dates for that city are Nov. 6, Dec. 4, Jan. 15, Mar. 4, and Apr. 8.

DISC OF THE DAY: Jo Stafford and Frankie Laine in "Hey, Good Lookin'," a rousing performance of the Hank Williams hit which should surpass the No. 1 side of the disc, "Gambella" (Columbia).

ART CONTEST: Prizes of $150 in cash and four record albums will be distributed next week among winners of an art contest for art education students at the University of Wisconsin.

More than 100 of them saw a special screening of "An American in Paris" at the Play Circle of the Memorial Union Monday night. They have until Monday to complete works, in any medium, based on the Technicolor picture.

Judges will be Aaron Bohrod and Byron C. Jorns, university artists; Bill Doudna, of The State Journal; Sterling Sorenson, of the Capital Times, and Dick Weiner, of the Daily Cardinal.

First prize will be $50. The awards will be given by the Orpheum theater, at which "An American in Paris" will open Nov. 20.

ON TELEVISION: Suzanne Devine, prize-winning Madison equestrienne, will be on WTMJ-TV at noon today. She will perform with her three horses, Chicago, Meadow Gold Joey, and Miss Whirlwind. Alice Mary Drew, Milwaukee equestrian instructor, will explain the principles of judging and horsemanship.

TODAY'S QUOTE: Van Johnson to June Allyson: "The height of something is a dumb girl turning a deaf ear to a blind date."

AMATEUR HOUR: All proceeds of the "Original Amateur Hour" show in the Milwaukee Arena on Thursday night will go to the "City of Hope," free hospital for cancer and tuberculosis patients in Duarte, Calif. The radio program's sponsor will donate the talents of Ted Mack, master of ceremonies, and the troupe.

Since Aug. 29, more than 800 amateurs from all over Wisconsin have been auditioned for the show; of these, about 20 will appear at the arena.

WISCONSIN PHOTOS: Pictures from the 1950 photographic exhibition, "Wisconsin Today," sponsored by the Wisconsin State Historical society, are being shown in the Wisconsin Union theater gallery under sponsorship of the Wisconsin Union gallery committee.

The show serves as a prelude to the society's 1951 show, entries for which are now being accepted at the State Historical museum office on the fourth floor of the library building.

AT PROVIDENCE: Ann Hemenway Becker, Madison, was in the cast of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which opened a nine-play season by "Sock and Buskin," undergraduate dramatic organization at Brown university, Providence, R. I.

Miss Becker, a graduate of West high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul Becker, 3501 Sunset dr.

CONTEST: A prize of $100 is being offered by Monmouth college for a four-part setting of the 100th Psalm for congregational singing. A prescribed metrical version has been prepared. The competition will close Feb. 29, 1952. You can get details by writing to "Thomas H. Hamilton, Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill."
