

Bill Doudna's
SPOTLIGHT
Radio Poll

TIP OF THE MORNING: You'll soon be hearing Peggy Lee in two quarter-hour programs each week on one of the large networks.

BALLOTS IN THE STATE JOURNAL'S annual radio poll are coming in faster than in any of the other balloting conducted in previous years.

The final ballot was published last Sunday in the Spotlight, and it will not be printed again. If you haven't voted, you'll have to recover last Sunday's State Journal to get a ballot.

Deadline for the voting is noon Saturday. Results will be printed on Christmas day.

AT MILWAUKEE: T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party" will follow "The Autumn Garden" at the Davidson theater, Milwaukee.

Freddie March and Florence Eldridge will co-star in the Lillian Hellman play Dec. 24 through 29, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Dates for "The Cocktail Party" are Jan. 7 through 12, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees. The cast will include Vincent Price, Marsha Hunt, Estelle Winwood, Reginald Denny, Harry Ellerbe, and Rose Hobart.

ON THE AIR: Last Sunday's "Reviewing Stand," heard on Mutual-WGN, will be rebroadcast at 7:30 p. m. Thursday by WHA-FM and at 4:30 p. m. Saturday by WJIA and WHA-FM.

This discussion of competence in public office is of special interest here, since one of the speakers is Arnold S. Zander, Madison, president of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees.

FILM FARE: George Fisher, substituting for Edith Gwynn, reports from Hollywood...

If you wonder why so many movie personalities are attempting to break into night-club and recording work, take a look at the Daily Variety figures on Mario Lanza's income for 1951: A measly $150,000 from movies, as against $200,000 from a concert tour, and over $400,000 royalties from his recordings.

Another $250,000 from his radio show and it's no wonder the echo-chamber Caruso can afford to put on weight. "Because You're Mine," Lanza's movie which was delayed a few months and he lost pounds, has started at last, with James Whitmore, Doris Morrow, and Spring Byington in support.

If Audie Murphy can arrange his schedule properly, he'll star in "The Baron," which Don Siegel will direct in Austria next spring.

Now the motor picture is applying psychoanalysis to its musical scenes. Dimitri Tiomkin is having Dr. Wolfgang Wadsworth, authority on the emotional and psychic impact of music, act as adviser during the scoring of Stanley Kramer's "My Six Convicts."

Jane Wyman's singing gets better and better. Her next record has two special songs back to back, "I Like the Feeling" and "It's Nice When the Money Rains In."

Cesar Romero's next picture for Newmarket Productions will be filmed in South America.

Mercedes McCambridge is pre-recording six of her "Defense Attorney" radio shows to give her plenty of rest for the maternity room date which may fall on New Year's day.

In a neat reverse-switch, the means will entertain Debbie Reynolds with a belated Christmas in Burbank. Debbie will be away visiting the soldiers on Christmas day. But early in January a group of servicemen who have been entertained by her in Korea are due home on rotation. So they've arranged with Debbie's mother to have a Christmas tree and all the trimmings in the Reynolds home when they arrive.

Little International Stock Show Mar. 1

The 1952 University of Wisconsin Little International Livestock Show will be held Mar. 1 in the university stock pavilion, with afternoon and evening programs.

Donna Kropp, College of Agriculture senior from Watonsville, and general chairman of the show, announced Tuesday night.

Other agriculture students who are assisting Kropp as sub-chairmen are David Wickert, Appleton, programs; Dwayne Traeder, Holmenville, night show; James Smith, West Allis, day show; Leroy Hanson, Sun Prairie, tickets; Philip Kruskey, Hillsboro, publicity; James Everts, New London, promotions; Fred Linsie, Mondovi, horse show; Richard Bakke, Madison, ushers and grounds; Justin Juozaitis, Madison, meats; George Olson, Sparta, beef; and Charles Bekels, Hartford, ringer.

Three sub-chairmen are farm short course students. They are Robert Schiefelbein, Somerset, sheep; Corlis Meier, Curtis, dairy cattle; and James Wendt, Waukesha, swine.

Postmaster J. A. Warka reported Tuesday that automobiles parked in front of mail boxes on rural carrier routes, have prevented carriers from depositing mail in the boxes.

"This same situation prevails on mounted carrier routes serving the outlying section of the city," Warka said. "When this is done the carrier must return the mail to the postoffice or station where it is called for by the patron. This is an inconvenience to the patron who is deprived of the service to which he is entitled."

Warka also urged that all patrons inspect their mail box surroundings to determine whether they are clear of snow, and remedy the situation if necessary. All patrons residing on rural and short course students are required to keep the mail box approaches clear.

The postmaster announced that the Madison dead letter office is receiving a large amount of mail matter, particularly Christmas greeting cards, with insufficient addresses to permit delivery. He asked all mailers to see that addresses are complete.
