Bill Doudna's SPOTLIGHT Wisconsin Players

TIP O' THE MORNING: George Jessel is reported to be considering an offer of $4,000 a week to join CBS. He's now a 20th Century-Fox producer.

✦ ✦ ✦

A FANTASTIC world in which madness was saner than sanity came to life Tuesday night at the Wisconsin Union theater when Wisconsin Players gave the first of five performances of "The Madwoman of Chaillot."

In the vast cast, there was little left undone in proper characterization and costuming, and Jonathan Curvin had done a superior job in handling the almost constant movement of many players in the first act, set in a Parisian cafe. His direction stood up equally well in the more intimate second act, laid in the cellar home of Countess Aurelia, the madwoman of Chaillot.

Helen Lauritzen played the challenging title role—a woman whose mind kept her in the past, a pleasant one in which mankind favored love over gold, and whose memories and desire for universal happiness led her to destroy those whose greed would destroy her kind of world.

To the madwoman and to such persons as a ragpicker and a sewer-man, Playwright Jean Giraudoux had given most of the lines of devastating satire in which he made his point—briefly, that Mammon is a god who wrecks beauty, whether it be natural or man-made or of the spirit.

Miss Lauritzen developed her role, and thus Giraudoux' ideas, trenchantly. Her fantastic makeup and costuming seemed to disappear as the play progressed—and this is a tribute to her acting. One could wish, however, that her voice would carry better in those moments when she didn't face her audience.

Nuvit Ozdogru contributed another of his vivid character-drawings as the philosophical ragpicker who, at a trial in the Chaillot basement, was the witness for the defense of the countess' enemies. Richard Mason did well as the sewer-man.

Irmie Wolff, Elsa Splett, and Barbara Slemmons were excellent as the other madwomen, with their imaginary visitors, dog, and voices, which they were able to discard when such was the expedient thing to do.

Of the score of other players, many deserve note; special ones go to John Burr, as an anxious investor; Alex Karas, as a deluded prospector; Richmond Johnson, as a phony promoter; Arthur Dorlag, as a deaf mute; Leon Hamilton, as a doctor.

A minute love-plot was adequately handled by Joan Christopherson and Don Phelps.

Throughout there were scenes of great fun, skillfully placed. Applause greeted one of Robert Zeller's two good settings.

✦ ✦ ✦

BASEBALL ON THE AIR: Stations WISC and WISC-FM, already members of two radio networks, have joined a third, making them unusual if not unique. They carry Mufual and ABC shows, and with the start of the 1952 baseball season they will have programs from the Liberty Broadcasting System.

BOB ELSON

As a result of this, both stations will carry all daytime White Sox games this season. In addition, WISC-FM will broadcast Liberty's "Game of the Night" while WISC airs its regular schedule.

Bob Elson will be at the microphone for the White Sox games, while Pres. Gordon McLendon of Liberty will describe the night frays.

✦ ✦ ✦

HOVEY: A series of six broadcasts by Prof. Graham Hovey, now on WHA-FM at 7 each night, will be made available to the tape network of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters. More than 10 stations belong to the network.

Hovey, who is professor of journalism a the University of Wisconsin and news analyst for the Wisconsin State Broadcasting service, was one of two Madison men who made a 16,000-mile reporting trip to Western defense nations. The other was Roy L. Matson, editor of The State Journal.

✦ ✦ ✦

CHICAGO SHOWS: Two Chicago playhouses are making it easier for Madison theatergoers to see their shows.

The Harris theater will experiment with an early curtain two nights this month. Performances of "The Moon Is Blue" will start at 7:30 p.m. on Mar. 18 and 25—an hour earlier than usual. The play will be over on those nights at 9:40. The idea is to attract out-of-towners who want to go home right after the performances.

The Shubert theater has arranged with Western Union's Madison office to accept orders for tickets there for "Guys and Dolls."

"One need only call at the Western Union office and indicate choice of seats and date," Manager A. G. Tappen of the telegraph office said. "The price of tickets will be telegraphed to the theater. Confirmation in the form of a telegraphic acknowledgment will be sent to the buyer."

"Guys and Dolls" is presented at 8:20 p.m. Monday through Saturday and at 2:20 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday.

ONE MAN SHOW: James Fassett, commentator on the New York Philharmonic-Symphony broadcasts, remembers that when the orchestra was first put on the air, and for several years thereafter, the program required the services of a producer, a director, an assistant director (that was Fassett), a network director of programs, a writer, an announcer, and an intermission commentator. Today, Fassett does all these jobs. This entails timing the program in advance, writing the intermission script, producing the interview, doing the announcements and musical comments, giving the light signals for the conductor to begin each work, and sitting with the score next to the engineer to warn him of changes in dynamics.

French Open Drive on Indo-China Reds

SAIGON, Indo-China —(UP)— French union forces blasted Communist-led Viet Minh rebels with planes and artillery Tuesday in a major drive to wipe out rebel troops massing for an attack on Hanoi in northern Indo-China.

A French communique said the assault on rebel spearheads was the first big action to be launched by French and loyal Viet Nam forces since the withdrawal from Hoa Binh, 40 miles southwest of Hanoi.

French union forces began the drive Sunday to mop up Communist units which have infiltrated into fortified villages south of the "bamboo canal" near Ninh Giang.
