

TIP OF THE MORNING: Two of the season's top pictures have been scheduled at the Capitol theater. "Singin' in the Rain" will open April 23 and "The Greatest Show on Earth" May 7.

ONE of Madison's favorite musicians will return to one of his favorite cities Saturday, April 26. Ennio Bolognini, 45, will play at 8 p. m. in Beth El temple auditorium, 2702 Avenue D.

Bolognini has been coming to Madison for years, and each audience is more enthusiastic than the last one. He has appeared in cello recitals, as an assisting artist, as member of the Russian trio, and as soloist with the Madison Civic Symphony orchestra.

His last previous appearance was March 25, 1951, in the Beth El auditorium.

The cellist is a member of an all-musical family. His father, Ezidio, was a cellist who played under Arturo Toscanini in Argentina and Europe. His mother, Argia, was an opera singer and voice teacher. A brother, Remo, plays violin under Toscanini with the NBC Symphony orchestra, and another brother, Astor, is a violinist with the San Antonio Symphony orchestra.

Mail orders for the concert are being received now at the temple.

BOLOGNINI

ANNIVERSARIES: Today is the first anniversary of Gladys MacKenzie's first performance on the CBS "Club 55." Doris Day had two reasons to celebrate on April 3—it was her birthday and her wedding anniversary.

ON TOUR: The Pro Arte quartet of the University of Wisconsin will begin its spring tour Monday with a concert at 10:20 a. m. at Milton college, Milton.

The rest of the schedule:
Beloit college, April 15; Lake Mills high school, April 16; Racine Women's club, April 17; Holy Angels academy, Milwaukee, April 18; Northwestern Military academy, Lake Geneva, April 19; Monroe Methodist church, April 20; Public Service bldg., Kenosha, April 21; Milwaukee State college, April 22; Mt. Mary college, Milwaukee, April 23; Cardinal Stritch college, Milwaukee, April 24; Ripon college, April 25; Marion college, Fond du Lac, April 26; Concordia college, Milwaukee, April 27; and Edgewood college, Madison, April 28.

DISCS OF THE DAY: Recommended "pop" recordings...

♦♦ Champ Butler, with Percy Faith's orchestra: "Be Anything," a pleasant ballad, and "When I Look Into Your Eyes," a tervial (Columbia).

♦♦ Percy Faith orchestra: "Delicado," samba with Stan Freeman's harpsichord starting, and "Festival," with vocal chorus (Columbia).
♦♦ Harry James orchestra: "Moanin' Low," with a clarinet relieving James' dynamic trumpet, and "The Brave Bulls," better for listening than for dancing (Columbia).

♦ Duke Ellington orchestra: "Jam With Sam" and "VIP's Boogie," musts for the Ellington fans (Columbia).

FRENCH PLAY: Two Madison students are among the leading players in "The Would-Be Gentleman," which the French and Italian department of the university will present at 8 tonight in the Wisconsin Union theater. They are Donna Burns and Jim Nicholls. Other Madison students in the production are Jane Bandi, Nancy Griggs, Arona Siev, James Dyer, and George Stebbins.

ON THE AIR: Four girls will represent their respective high schools in a "good citizenship" program on WIBA and WIBA-FM at 6:45 p. m. Saturday. The girls, chosen by their faculties and fellow students, are Sylvia Sachjen, East; Darlene Gillette, Central; Kathleen James, West, and Peggy Nees, Wisconsin.

IN NEW YORK: Arthur "Skeets" Guenther, familiar figure in University of Wisconsin shows, has landed a place in the chorus of the revival of "Of Thee I Sing," starring Jack Carson. He was in "Curtain Going Up," a revue which closed before it could reach Broadway. He returned to New York on a Friday and got the new job the next morning.

Burgess Meredith and Betty Field will succeed Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy in the Broadway company of "The Fourposter" on June 9.
