JOHN CROSBY'S COLUMN

Arthur Godfrey Wrecks Normal Morning of TV

By JOHN CROSBY

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—CBS-TV, trying to stem the NBC flood of morning television, has come up with a brand new personality. Arthur Godfrey. The redhead with the freckles now heaves into view at 10:15 a.m., for heaven's sake. Man just gets the sleep out of his eyes and tries to focus his mind on the new day and there's Godfrey on the screen. A hair-raising experience, that supercharged personality so early.

A mother from out of town writes that her small son, accustomed at that hour to turn on an animated cartoon every morning, got Godfrey instead and burst into tears. Probably damaged his little psyche irrevocably. The fifteen-minute program, which CBS is threatening to extend to half an hour, is a simulcast of a small segment of the Godfrey morning radio program which, as any school-child knows, is the fourth largest industry in the western hemisphere.

There is no effort to disguise it as anything but a radio program with cameras turned on it. Well, his hair is brushed. His eyes are open almost all the way. For all I know, he may even have shoes on. Otherwise there are no concessions to visibility. He violates all the rules, but then he always has.

LAPSE IN TASTE

As to the show, there's not much point in dwelling on it extensively because it's been on the radio seven and a half hours a week for what seems like centuries. If you haven't caught it by this time, you must just have arrived from Saturn and you wouldn't understand Godfrey's special charm anyhow. He tells some might fine jokes on himself and, occasionally, some not-so-fine jokes on others. A recent joke about a man whose will left his worldly possessions to his wife, his body to the Harvard medical school and his brains to Harry Truman is a lamentable lapse in taste, not because it's about the President of the United States who is fair game for jokesmiths, but simply because it's a bum joke.

Some time back, a CBS executive was asked where television was going to find the material to fill all those hours in the week. "We'll lick it with charm," he said. For your thoughtful citizen who considers TV a magnificently versatile instrument, the projection of charm alone, charm untrammeled by matter serious enough to ruffle the intellect, puts a severe limit on television's potentialities. We are in danger of being charmed into stupor.

Godfrey, without question, is one of the warmest and most winning personalities on television or anywhere else. From time to time, though, I just feel there's too much Godfrey around. There ought to be a law restricting the citizens to so much Godfrey a week. Two hours of him, maybe. You should no more let the citizenry gorge unrestrainedly on Godfrey than you would allow junior unqualified access to the candy box. It isn't good for the folks. The excess Godfrey ought to be husbanded for national emergencies. Or shipped out to backward areas under the Point 4 program.

One more thing. If you're emotionally unstable, I wouldn't recommend Godfrey at 10:15 a.m. Not the visible Godfrey. You'd get struck blind.

SPACE FEVER CASE

Speaking of that small boy who burst into tears at the sight of Godfrey, we have a couple of other small boy stories here. One youngster, according to his mother, came down recently with a bad case of space fever, an affliction he picked up from "Tom Corbett, Space Cadet," one of whose characters had it. The script writer obligingly inserted a message in the next program that earthlings couldn't get space fever. Boy get well right away.

From Frank Sullivan, my Saratoga correspondent, comes the story of a little girl in full cowboy outfit watching Hopalong Cassidy. Hoppy was in bad trouble. Some varmints had him backed against a wall and, when he reached for his shootin' iron, it wasn't there. "What's my gun?" he cried. "Take mine," said the young lady and pitched it right through the screen.

ABBE AIRS IT

Science Takes Spotlight In Educational Telecast

By JAMES ABBE

Every day this week is "moving day" for Radio Station KSFO and her three-year-old grown-up television offspring KPIX. The moving vans have been backing up to that imposing looking new edifice on San Francisco's Van Ness Avenue. We are already hearing KSFO's radio programs from there even if we can't tell the difference.

As for telecasts: It is possible we may note a difference when We get the first KPIX and CBS television programs via the new plant next Sunday. They're having more elbow room in the new quarters than they had when they were living at the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

SCIENTIFIC TREAT

There's one KPIX program that should be worth a good looking-over tomorrow at 1 p.m. for all of us with direct or indirect interest in those two great institutions of higher learning and football, the University of California at Berkeley and Stanford University at Palo Alto. The program is one listed as "The John Hopkins Science Review," which you may have seen and heard at various hours and days in the past.

This program is scheduled for tomorrow at 1 p.m.

The Johns Hopkins program will depict the greatest discoveries and advances which have come from various university laboratories during the past quarter century, with Cal and Stanford both represented.

BLAME MORPHEUS

Before I leave the subject of universities, here's a confession. I usually write this column the night before publication, and get up early the following morning to drive my minor children to school, then return to bed. Excuse this personal history, but yesterday morning I slept through and missed the new and so far successful television program of the University of California on child psychology which Dr. Mary Cover Jones has undertaken.

I'll try not to let it happen again.

It may surprise those of us who connect the names Robert Dollar and Stanley Dollar with shipping to know that "The Robert Dollar Co." was a pioneer in short wave radio. Running true to the Dollar family's long record of pioneering, R. Stanley Dollar has just announced the installation of the Jerrold Mul-TV Antenna System in their "Robert Dollar Building" at 311 California Street in San Francisco; and in the adjoining "R. Stanley Dollar Building" at 141 Battery Street.

As far as this columnist knows, this is the first installation in Northern California, of an all inclusive master antenna system to serve all the tenants of a big building. (Correct me if you know of any other.)

Having visited the sea-going and cattle-breeding Stanley Dollar on his Eastbay ranch, I knew him for a radio fan, but didn't know he had gone all out for television.

Here's his (I almost wrote, "confession") quote:

"We are living in a visual age. People not only want to hear the news and important events of the world as they take place, but they also want to see them. Television is the medium that is bringing these incidents into the home of millions of Americans these days.

"Some events occurring during the day are of vital interest to business men. In order to see these happenings as they take place the executive needs the proper equipment in his business office.

"Since the Robert Dollar Building was first built in 1919, we have frequently modernized it for the convenience of our tenants. In 1947 we added the R. Stanley Dollar Building and the garage. This installation of a Mul-TV Antenna System is our latest project to keep abreast of the times.

KUDOS TO DOLLAR

"The master antenna on the roof of the Robert Dollar Building has three sections, one for each of the San Francisco stations. The three antenna sections are tied together by coaxial cable. On each floor a branch coaxial is run into every office that wishes television," unquote.
